Video: Peer researchers reflect on their findings

Do you want to know more about our research but short of reading time? Watch these short videos from our peer and community researchers sharing findings from research they have been involved in as part of Refugee Integration Yorkshire and Humber.

A peer researcher's reflection on social connections in Yorkshire - Jack talks about the concept of 'cultural exchange', which arose when he worked with the Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR) on their recent social connections project. As part of this work IPPR published the toolkit 'Building the foundations for social connections in Yorkshire and the Humber'.

Refugee housing pathways: the importance of information and support – Akosiwa shares the story of a research participant who experienced homelessness after being awarded refugee status. Read more about this research on refugee housing experiences, led by the University of Huddersfield.

A way of building trust, and creating a safe setting when sharing data – Sameerah reflects on how her role as a community researcher helped gain participants' trust in the research process. This video forms part of the Migration Yorkshire peer research toolkit.

You can find out more about research at Migration Yorkshire here.

Source URL:
https://www.migrationyorkshire.org.uk/news/video-peer-researchers-reflect-their-findings