Attracting talent: the role of migrant workers in the Yorkshire and Humber labour market

YHRMP ID
62
Author(s)
Experian

Aims

To explore migration trends affecting Yorkshire and Humber and the role that migrant workers have in addressing skills shortages and gaps and employer interventions in this area.

Methodology

The report is based on analysis of official data sources including National Insurance registration and the Labour Force Survey; other Experian data sources; and consultations with key commentators.

Key issues

The report addresses migration in Yorkshire and Humber and the need for migrant workers in the future. Available statistics are used to describe numbers of migrant workers and sectors of employment in relation to recruitment issues. Processes used by employers to recruit overseas workers are outlined. The report then reflects on the prospects for the working age population, and what skills shortages migrant workers might be required to fill in the future.

Migrant Group
EU migrants
Non-EU migrants
Topic
Work and education
Labour needs
Migrant workers
Skills
Place
Yorkshire & Humber - region-wide
Year
2006
Resource Type
Report
Publisher
Yorkshire Forward
Published Location
Leeds

Source URL: https://www.migrationyorkshire.org.uk/research-entry/attracting-talent-role-migrant-workers-yorkshire-and-humber-labour-market