Financial donations

Independent financial donations help organisations to be able to respond quickly and effectively to unpredictable emergency situations, and to meet individual needs, especially as the funding that organisations do have is stretched and often not flexible.

If you can donate money, please donate to organisations or community groups that demonstrate an understanding of community needs, safe and legal working practices, and systems of accountability.

If you're interested in offering significant sums, perhaps as part of corporate social responsibility, or as part of diversifying your funding activity, we'd be delighted to hear from you at admin@migrationyorkshire.org.uk, so that we can help foster positive connections to local partners/groups or communities.
