Volunteering

Many support services are dependent on volunteer support. There are many different volunteer roles advertised in local organisations across the region, where you could offer time and skills.

Newcomers also often want to contribute to their new communities as volunteers. If you'd like to open up volunteering or participation opportunities in your group or organisation, and want to ask questions, or access support around including people with different migration backgrounds, we’d love to hear from you, contact us at admin@migrationyorkshire.org.uk.

Use your voice and network

To help raise awareness, safety, understanding and connection, follow and amplify the voices of people with lived experience of migration and forced migration on social media.

Support different communities

Support local groups helping to meet the basic needs of anyone in our communities. Our communities are all interconnected and supporting in

Source URL:
https://www.migrationyorkshire.org.uk/volunteering